Who we are

The Zentrum fir politesch Bildung (ZpB, Centre for Citizenship Education) is an independent foundation.

Our aim is to promote active citizenship through a better understanding of politics and democracy as well as current social challenges.

We want to encourage mainly young people, but also the general population to participate in political life and public debate.

Living democracy!

DemocraCity is a simulation that allows participants to better understand decision-making processes and complex political contexts through active participation.

By negotiating common interests, setting up a party programme and building a city, the participants discover the core elements of democratic coexistence.

They learn that every voice counts and that the exchange of arguments, conflict resolution, respect and cooperation are part of a democratic society.

This interdisciplinary workshop allows to strengthen action and social skills as well as the capability for self-reflection and networked thinking.
