The interactive, self-guided, multi-lingual exhibition about democracy and society

Exploring Democracy and Society

Like in any laboratory, Den DemokratieLabo invites you to experiment, to discuss, and to discover what democracy means to you. In doing so, visitors research, test and examine a specific object of observation: democracy. Democracy is not 'fixed' but an ever-evolving process, that thrives off of a multiplicity of opinions. Open questions and conflicts are a core element in this process.

Visitors in Den DemokratieLabo are invited to (re)think and discuss various societal questions and by doing so to discover what their own role might or can be within a democracy.

Den DemokratieLabo is self-explanatory, no guidance is needed.
